THE HISTORY OF THE UNIVERSITY TAVERN „ZUR ROSEN“

*Das Alte stürzt,
es ändert sich die Zeit,
Und neues Leben blüht
aus den Ruinen*

Friedrich Schiller aus: Wilhelm Tell

The historical restaurant „Zur Rosen“ is closely connected with the history of Jena's university. Shortly after the university's foundation in 1558, it approached Duke Johann Friedrich the Second of Saxony-Weimar with a request to purchase the former bakery of Just Rosenhain and his son Wolf Rosenhain. The building was to become the future home of a lawyer's college, which would open up a public house in the lower level of the house. The university simultaneously also requested for the house to be exempted from all city taxes in order to make the tavern more affordable. This request for tax exemptions was met with fierce resistance from the citizenship of Jena. The house was bought in 1561, and in 1562 the „free tavern Zur Rosen“ was opened. The name of the tavern is interpreted in various ways: one concept leads the name of the restaurant back to the family name of Rosenhain, the previous owner. Another hypothesis is based off a plaque of the university tavern's private label, which had a rose painted on it after the tavern was granted the „Rose Privilege“ in 1570, thus permitting it to serve beer and wine free of tax.

Over the course of the years, the houses on the Rosen property have been reconstructed, modified and adjusted time and time again in order to meet the respective user requirements. The tradition of using the building as a restaurant, however, has remained constant for 450 years.

The basement has been used since 1966 from the student club „Rosenkeller e.V.“. In 1991, the Studentenwerk Thüringen took over the management of the „Rose“, as the facility is fondly called colloquially.

In the years 2008-2011, fundamental construction and renovation work took place with the goal of conserving the basic structure of the building and re-opening one of the oldest university buildings as a restaurant again as well as for other university purposes.
